BIG PARADE WILL BE HELD TOMORROW

In spite of the showers this morning the town is swarming with firemen who are here to attend the 24th annual convention of the Central District Volunteer Firemen's association which starts today and continues until tomorrow evening. Over one hundred and fifty delegates had registered up to one o'clock this afternoon and it is expected that about fifty more will be here for the business meeting.

Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell of Philadelphia, state president of the volunteer firemen's association, arrived on the 10:20 train and was met by Judge Singleton Bell, District Attorney Walter Welsh and other prominent men of Clearfield. Judge Bonniwell is stopping at the Dimeling hotel where he has been meeting his many friends.

Most of the morning was spent by the different delegates in getting acquainted and in making preparation for the business meeting which will be called to order at two o'clock this afternoon by President of the association, J. D. Connelly. The hotels are preparing for the largest crowds in the history of the town and are already nearly filled.

This evening at seven o'clock the banquet of the delegates will be held and later in the evening the grand ball in the Dimeling ball room will be held in honor of the delegates.

A. T. KEARNEY EXPLAINS HOW TO USE LIME

Farm Agent Discusses Problems Which Farmers of County Have Asked About

FARM BUREAU COOPERATING

By A. T. Kearney.

Many farmers in Clearfield county are planning to apply lime to the land in which they are sowing fall grain. These men do not need anyone to inform them that lime must be applied for the maximum production of farm crops. The results of its use are obvious on practically every thrifty field of clover in the county. With the knowledge that lime will correct soil acidity, and make the soil favorable for the growth of leguminous crops, the problems concerning its use divide themselves as follows:

1. How much can I afford to pay for it.
2. What form of lime will give the most satisfactory and economical results.
3. How should it be applied?

A successful Clearfield county farmer stated recently that he could afford to pay 10 per cent interest on borrowed money, used for purchasing lime, rather than to allow his crops to suffer on account of soil acidity. There is no question that lime, even at the present high prices, pays big dividends, if intelligently handled on a large percentage of the cultivated land in the county and there is perhaps no other material applied to our land that will give as prompt and as large return on the investment. In some cases, however, it is being purchased at an exhorbitant figure owing to the large overhead charges accrued in freight, cost of sacking and retailers profits.

The Farm Bureau is interested in aiding the farmers of the county in obtaining their lime at a lower cost. Among the tangible methods for the accomplishment of this end appears to be the encouraging of the output of lime rock, where it is possible in the county. A number of outcrops have already been visited and samples of the rock sent away for analysis. In sections where high grade rock can be obtained for a dollar a ton, a substantial saving can usually be applied by its use, either in burned, or the raw ground form.

However, the possibility of obtaining a cheaper lime by this method applies only to those regions of the county where a workable outcrop occurs. For these sections that are compelled to ship in their lime, the best method seems to be the purchase in carload lots of standard lime product. All price comparisons should, of course, be based on the cost laid down at the home depot. In no case should lime be bought without knowing its purity. Pure limestone is 100 per cent Calcium Carbonate. Limestone analyzing over 90 per cent of this compound is considered good. Dolomite limestones contain a part of their carbonate in the magnesium form. Such rock is satisfactory for agricultural purposes where the amount of magnesium carbonate does not exceed 40 per cent. At the present time, high grade burned lime can be obtained for about $4.50 per ton in carload lots in most parts of the county. Ground limestone will cost from $3.40 to $3.75. When burned or lump lime sells for $4.50 per ton, hydrated lime is worth $3.40 and ground limestone worth $2.52 per ton, based on actual lime content. Such factors as weight, fineness and ease of application must, of course, be considered.

Recruiting Station to be Opened In Dimeling

N. G. P. Officers Will Seek Recruits Throughout This Section

During the last few days bills have been displayed in the local postoffice and in other public places throughout the town and surrounding country, announcing the opening of a temporary recruiting station for the National Guard of Pennsylvania in Clearfield.

This station will be at the Hotel Dimeling, at which place the recruiting officer for this district, Lieut. R. A. Zentmyer will be present on the afternoons and evenings days, August 25, September 1 and 12.

Lieutenant Zentmyer will be glad to talk over with any possible candidates just what is offered and expected.

We would suggest to our energetic and patriotic young men that this is the opportunity to get into the service and secure a thorough training in preparedness. The future safety of this country may depend upon how well the young man of today fits himself for the duty of defending his country.

Clearfield county has many young men who ought to be the sons of their fathers, who, in '61 rushed to offer their services at the first call of duty.

Boys, now is your chance to prove that you meant it when you said that if you had a chance you would enlist in the National Guard, and would go to the border or any other place where courage was needed.

BIG SWEDE CAUGHT

The Progress learns on good authority that William Dennery (the Big Swede) who is wanted here in the Rowles murder case has been captured in Cleveland and is now in the custody of officers en route to Clearfield. He will arrive here tonight or tomorrow morning. More about it in tomorrow's paper.

ENTERTAINMENT CLOSES SEASON OF PLAYGROUND

Woodland People Turn Out In Large Numbers to The Exercises at Minerat Springs

TWO MEDALS ARE PRESENTED

Despite the fact that the closing event of the season's work at Mineral Springs Park, Woodland's pretty little playground, had to compete for attention with an Indian show, there was a crowd of about two hundred and fifty people gathered in the pavilion at the park to pay tribute to the wonderful work that Miss Violet Williams, the play ground directress, has accomplished during the summer.

The audience was made up largely of employes of the Woodland plant of the Harbison-Walker Refractories Co., under whose auspices the play ground movement has reached its present proportions. There was a noticeable sprinkling of foreign element in the assemblage which goes to show that native and alien alike in the community have become interested in the work.

Promptly at eight o'clock the performance was opened by a chorus of five little girls with a very appropriate song, "How do you do, have you brought your smiles with you?" This was followed by a little playlet, founded on the troubles of Mother Goose, which brought in almost every character of the time honored personage. The number was heartily appreciated as was shown by the frequent interruptions of the skit by the laughter of the audience. The "White Queen," another playlet which exemplified the fact that no one ever knows, when a kind act is performed, how manifold may be the returns, deserves especial mention in that the moral teachings of the story portrayed will have a lasting effect on the children. A German folksong with a lot of pretty action was the next feature and was heartily applauded.

At this point, Mr. David Young, the superintendent of the Woodland plant, was called upon for a talk. Mr. Young gave a short review of the work done by the playground officials and endeavored to impress on his hearers the importance of the play ground work. He said that all could not be directors of the work; but it needed some very deep study to fit the person to fulfill the duties that devolved upon the director and paid high tribute to Miss Williams who has had charge of the work for the past two summers, thanking her for the interest that she had taken and hoped to be able to inform his hearers that Miss Williams would return to Mineral Springs Park next summer. Mr. Young then presented Miss Pickles and John Eckley medals for proficiency in play ground work. These medals are given out by the National Play Ground Association for the attainment of a high standard of work that is carried on at the play grounds. The evening was closed by a handkerchief pantomine by older girls at the close of which they wished the audience "Good Night." Miss Williams was assisted by Miss Mable Albert at the piano and Miss Mable Young gave very able assistance with the costuming.

There was something that was noticeable in the makeup of the audience and that was the absence of the fathers of the children in the pavilion. The fathers of Woodland should become interested in this work in that it affects the entire fut [illegible] of the kiddies. The lessons of rightly directed energy and the inculcation of clean morals will go a long way toward the making of better men and women in the future and here is where this great humanitarian movement has its last effect.

During the past summer there has been erected, through the kindly offices of Mr. Young, a storage house for the small equipment that is used in play ground work. A peep inside discloses neatly arranged rows of dumbells and Indian clubs, bird houses that have been made by the boys and girls and there are also a number of costumes that can be used in staging litle performances. A very important feature of the store house is a complete First Aid kit so that minor accidents at the park can be given immediate attention.

Woodland is to be congratulated on having such a finely equipped play spot for the children and the play ground officials have been very fortunate that they have had as efficient a directress as Miss Williams has proven herself to be. Before concluding her duties Miss Williams formed an association among the older girls so that, in case she does not return next year, there will be an organization to perpetuate the good work that she has started. The officers of the Association are, Miss Grace Albert, president; Miss Lola Young, secretary, and Miss Thelma Stewart, treasurer.

R. I. GILLILAND IS MARRIED AT PHILIPSBURG

Cermony Solemnized At The Philipsburg M. E. Church Weds Miss Grace Friday

BRIDE WORE TRAVELING SUIT

A wedding of social prominence, marked by beautiful simplicity, was solemnized at the Trinty Methodist Episcopal church, of Philipsburg, on Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock, when one of Philipsburg's charming young ladies and a poular resident of Clearfield, in the persons of Miss Grace Gertrude Friday and Mr. Ralph Irwin Gilliland, plighted their truth before hymen's altar. Rev. C. W. Wasson, the bride's pastor, performed the impressive ring ceremony, with only the immediate relatives and a few honored guests of the contracting parties attending.

The church was artistically decorated with palms and banks of goldenglow and goldenrod, the harmonious color note enhancing the beauty of the occasion.

Preceeding the ceremony Miss Mary Fryberger rendered most beautifully several selections on the organ, and as "Lohengrin" was being played the bride and groom walked down the center aisle to the altar. The sweet strains of "Barcarolle" were heard during the service.

The bride was adorable in a tailored suit of kobe brown French garbadine finished with tan cloth of the same material, and wearing hat and shoes of corresponding hue. She also wore a corsage bouquet of orchids.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gilliland were surrounded by their friends and a reception was held and congratulations and best wishes were showered upon the happy young couple, following which they were taken to P. R. R. depot, where they started on their honeymoon to visit Chicago, Nappanee, Wawasee Lake and St. Paul, expecting to be absent three weeks. Upon their return they will reside in Philipsburg.

The bride, an accomplished and winsome daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Friday, has for several years successfully taught the seventh and eighth grade in the public schools at Morrisdale. She is a graduate of the Philipsburg High School, and has lived all her life in this city, where she is regarded as one of its most attractive young ladies.

Following his graduation from Periomen seminary he attended State College from which institution he was also graduated He is a young man of sterling qualities

The pretty nuptial event was preceeded by a delightful wedding breakfast. The table, at which places were set for eight guests, was beautiful with its festoonings of smilax and centerpiece of pink rose buds arranged in a hand painted china basket Hand painted china of rose design was also used, charmingly carrying out the color scheme of pink and green.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome and costly gifts.

The out-of-town guests were Mrs Maria Youthers and Mr and Mrs William Gilliland of Clearfield, Miss Ella Ruthford, of St. Paul, Minn., Miss Bernice Gilliland of Philadelphia, and L. K. Hayes of Curwensville.

EMPLOYEES CAN HOLD OUT ONLY 48 HOURS MORE

The President Wants Interstate Commerce Commission Increased In Membership

MANAGER SAYS BE PREPARED

Washington, Aug. 23.—(By United Press)- Following an hour's discussion between President Wilson and Chairmen Newlands and Adamson of the senate and house interstate commerce committee it became known today that the President desires a bill passed by the house providing for an increase in the membership of the interstate commerce commission. It is believed the President's action is based on the desire that the commission sit for hearings at the request of the railroad brotherhood concerning the increased rates, and in case they concede to President Wilson's proposition for an 8 hour day.

The meeting of railway presidents which was held at 11:00 reported to the sub-committee that no decision had been reached and had resulted in no acceptance of a plan. Strike talk broke out again when Thomas Donovan of the Boston and Albany Railway and chairman of the brotherhood proposed that the brotherhood chairmen return to their homes leaving the four heads here to arrange for a strike.

For a time it appeared as though the senatee might take action, but several of the leaders fought against such a drastic measure and Donovan's plan was killed. The strike talk was so strong, however that one of the brotherhood leaders said he doubted if the men could be kept in line for more than 48 hours.

We have to apologize today for not being able to print all the personal items that were turned in yesterday. Trouble with one of our mmachines delayed us about two hours and we were compelled to neglect practically all the personals and some important news matter.

The firemen can thank the weather man for one thing at last. Althought the rain has considerably dampened the enthusiasm of the convention today, it has worked wonders in the atmosphere and unless it gets real hot by tomorrow noon the parade route will be very pleasant. If the sun shines tomorrow morning the street hose should be used all over the town.

MAY MEAN A SAVING.

That the condemnation which Gov. Hughes has visited upon the Administration for creating useless commissions to make places for "deserving Democrats" may be productive of good even before March 4th, is indicated by the report from Washington that certain Democratic leaders have initiated a movement to cut the salaries of all members of special commissions to $7,500. Certain of the Democratic leaders predict the reduction of the salaries of the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Reserve Board, the Farm Loans Board and the prospective tariff commission to $7,500, in conformity with the pay of members of the proposed Shipping Commission. Republicans are very skeptical, however, that such a step will be taken unless President Wilson is defeated in November.

WHY DO THEY STAY ON THE BORDER?

Secretary Baker in his series of statements and letters written to critics of the Administration's policy of keeping the National Guard on duty on the Mexican border, is almost brusque in asserting that the Guard will stay there "as long as it is needed to protect American lives and property." But, with all this, he is not explicit as to how it is to do this. Americans were told long ago to get out of Mexico or protect themselves without hope of help, while American property there has long ceased to have any interest for the Administration in Washington save as a horrible example of the alleged selfishness of various and sundry unamed citizens anxious to embrass their home country and get the President in difficulties by claiming protection. Moreover, it is asserted again and again that the policy of the Administration has been consistently for withdrawal from Mexico. Carranza agents have openly boasted that this is and has been the case, if not preceding, at least following closely upon the call for the National Guard mobilization; so there is no wonder the questions are being asked as to why the boys are still kept on the border, "winning bloodless victories." An endeavor, too, is now being made to put the cart before the horse and credit the coming "withdrawal" scheme to the army officials instead of the civil Administration, which has forced its policies on the army at all issues. This, of course, it has a right to do, but it must take the full responsibility.—Public Ledger.

Prohibition Party Will Make Very Extensive Campaign During the Fall

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 23.—The active leaders of the Prohibition party are completing the final arrangements for a campaign that is expected to demonstrate to the people of the entire country that the party with the camel as the insignia is henchforth to be reckoned with as a factor in national and state politics. The campaign will be nation wide in its scope and will be conducted along lines that the experience of the older parties has shown to be the most conducive to success at the polls. Tons of campaign literature will be scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific and a corps of able stump speakers will penetrate to every nook and corner of the land.

With funds already subscribed, the campaign leaders plan to operate a special presidential train through the "strategic" territory. There will be intensive campaigning in Michigan, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana. Special movements are also being prepared in Montana, Idaho, Missouri, California, Nebraska and South Dakota, in which constitutional amendments are pending. In Washington, Oregon and Arkansas the Prohibitionists will be especially alert, as in these states the liquor interests are attempting, by referendum elections, to break down the regulatory or prohibitionitory laws. The problem is to hold territory already gained and add new.

The efforts of the Prohibitionists according to a statement of Virgil G. Hinshaw of this city, the national chairman, will be distributed generously among issues, state and national, as an effort will be made to encourage the candidacies of Prohibitionists ambitious to enter Congress. The Prohibitionists realize that there exists among men voters a very large and influential body of independents. Previous invitations to the Progressives as a unit came to nothing, but as the Progressives ideas are apparently in the line of social reform promised by the Prohibitionists it is argued that Progressives could be legitimately asked to join hands with the party now led by J. Frank Hanly and Dr. Ira Landrith.

In the opinion of party leaders the Prohibitionists enter the campaign this year under particularly promising conditions. There is, first, a general sentiment in favor of regulation—if not destruction—of the whole liquor traffic. Second, there are movements in several states looking toward prohibition. Third, an enormous increase in the number of women voters inspires the hope that the Prohibitionists can attract a considerable body. The effort to attract the votes of the women is made in the belief that women generally are inclined to support temperance or prohibition regardless of other political persuasions.

Financial prospects, however, are extremely encouraging. Gratifying progress is being made in the efforts to raise a campaign fund of a quarter of a million dollars or more. The managers realize that it costs a tremendous amount of money to run a national campaign, but they are confident sufficient funds will be forthcoming to carry out their plans. These plans call for the maintenance in this city until election day of an extensive publicity office, from which campaign arguments will be sent. This office will also operate as headquarters for 1,000 or more workers throughout the national field.

Today's Geographic Study of The Great European War Zone

Washington, Aug. 23.—Doiran, the town at which the Franco-British forces from Salonika began their long expected drive recently, is described in the following war geography bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society from its Washington headquarters.

"Situated on the frontier between Servia and Greece, and only about 10 miles south of the Bulgarian border, Doiran, also known as Polianino, is 40 miles northwest of Salonika on the southern shores of the almost circular lake of the same name. It was doubtless chosen as the point of first attack by the allies because it is connected by rail with Salonika, the road from the Greek port to Constantinople here making a great loop to the north west and then returning eastward by way of Seres, an important town about 45 miles northeast of the Salonika base of operations.

"Lake Doiran, nestling under the southern declivities of the Belasitza mountain range, is probably the Lake Prasias mentioned by Herodotus whose description of the Paeonians, living in houses built over the edge of the water, fits in a measure the modern fisherfolk living in huts in this vicinity. The women of present-day Doiran are not so famous for their industry, however, as were their noted forerunners of whom the Greek historian relates a typical story to the effect that Darius, seeing a beautiful Paeonian girl carrying a pitcher of water on her head, leading a horse to drink, and at the same time spinning flax, immediately order his Thracian general to send two tribes of these Paeonians into Asia in order that they might instill a similar spirit of thrift among the Persians.

"Eight miles west of Doiran is the Vardar River, which rises in the Shar mountains, flows through the Uskup plain and enters the Gulf of Salonika, thus constituting for hundreds of years the principal route from Central Europe to the Aegean Sea. Between the Vardar and the Struma River (to the east) extend the Belasitza mountains, a range some 30 miles in length forming part of the southern boundary of Bulgaria.

"The name of these mountains will always be associated with one of the most harrowing episodes of the Middle Ages, for it was at the battle of Belasitza that Samuel, the Bulgarian czar who had conquered practically all the Balkan peninsula and whose sway extended from the Danube to Morea, met defeat at the hands of the redoubtable Byzantine emperor, Basil II, surnamed Bulgaroktonos (Slayer of Bulgarians). Basil had laid the foundation for his success a quarter of a century previously when he rode out in front of his troops at Abydos and challenged his rebel general, Bardas Phocas, to single combat. Phocas, wheeling his horse preparatory to accepting the challenge, fell from his charger and when picked up by his soldiers was found to be dead.

"During the battle of Belasitza in 1014 Basil captured 15,000 Bulgarians. He blinded the whole number, leaving but one eye to every hundredth man, spared to this extent in order that he might act as a guide for the pitiable host of warriors thus returned to their czar. When Samuel beheld this helpless army of his mutilated subjects marching toward him he fainted and two days later died of grief. With him died the Slavonic empire of the Balkans and for a century and a half thereafter the Bulgarians were subject to the Byzantine rulers."

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water b fore breakfast.

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Lets us live well, eat well digest well, work well sleep well, and look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone whether, ailing, sick or well, should each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigstible waste sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifing the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of waer from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, billious spell, stomach trouble; others who have shallow skin, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make any one a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.

Big Business Recognizes Publicity.

By BREEN.

In latter years the biggest enterprises in this country have recognized the value of advertising. The men in charge of their advertising campaigns are paid splendid salaries. In fact, no branch of the business receives more attention. Publicity and advertising form the keynote of success.

If big business needs advertising doesn't small business need it?

Every man in business needs advertising. If his business is a success he needs advertising to keep it so. If his business is struggling liberal advertising will build it up.

ARGUE NEW TRIAL.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 23.—An extraordinary term of Supreme Court convened here today to hear the application for a new trial in the case of Charles F. Stielow, the man who was recently saved from the death chair in Sing Sing prison by securing two eleventh-hour reprieves in one day. Stielow was convicted of murdering Charles Phelps, a farmer by whom he was employed, and Mr. Phelps' housekeeper, Mrs. Wolcott, at their home in Orleans county, N. Y., in July of last year. The conviction was brought about chiefly on a confession alleged to have been made by Stielow, and which the convicted man subsequently declared was forced upon him by third degree methods. Lawyers and other influential people who have become convinced of Stielow's innocence set to work to save him from the death chair. Their efforts resulted in the arrest of [illegible] King, an itinerant peddler, who had spent the night at the Phelps' home. King is alleged to have made damaging admissions amounting to practically a confession of guilt and the lawyers of Stielow are confident that they will be able to fasten upon the peddler the crime for which their client now stands convicted.

THE HUSTLING BROWNS.

The Browns have finished in the first division only twice in the fourteen years they have been in the American league, in 1902 and 1908 Four times—in 1905, 1910, 1911 and 1913—they have been locked in the cellar

Ten years ago, Fielder Jones, now piloting the Browns and at that time manager of the white Sox, pulled his team up from nowhere and won 19 straight games The sensational spurt won the pennant for the Sox, who later downed the Cubs in the world's series

St Louis hasn't had a pennant winner since the days of the old American association While members of the old organization the Browns brought home four pennants in a row —1885 6-7 8

George Sisler, the Browns' wonder is credited with being the most versatile pastimer in the big yard He is there as a pitcher, a baseman, or an outfielder, and likewise as a batsman and base runners

Koob the youngster and the two veterans, Plank and Groom, have carried the pitching burden for the Jones crowd all season

While the Browns have been making their spectacular pennant race the team has remained a second division outfit in both club batting and club fielding.

Winning fourteen straight games started the Browns on the road to Pennantville and at the same time established the season's record in the American league

The owner of the Browns have hung up a bonus of $5000 to be divided among the players if they cop the pennant

Not all the glory of the Browns showing belongs to the youngsters of the team Old timers like Wallace, Plank Groom Hartley and Miller have been keeping step with the younger players and appear fit to go the full distance

Eddie Plank, the veteran twirler who has thrown the speed throttle wide open in an effort to pitch the Browns to a pennant starting posting fifteen years ago with the Athletics Up to the present year, his last season's record with the Federal league included, he has won 232 games and lost 164.

Schalf of the White Sox and Schang of the Athletics, who are recognized as the class of the American league backstops, will now have a share in the spotlight with Hank Severeid Hank's work behind the plate and his batting have been gleeful doing for the Browns.

In Shotton, Marsans, Sisle and Pratt, the Browns have the speediest quartet under the big top. They are among the first ten base stealers in the American league, and woe is right for the fielder who hesitates a fraction of a second in an attempt to nip 'em on the paths.

Fielder Jones, pilot of the Browns, made his first reputation as a manager of the White Sox After quitting the Sox he accepted the presidency of the Northwestern league, which position he resigned to take charge of the St Louis Feds last year

None of the Browns is leading in any department of the game, but as a team they are a hard bunch to beat

DIVORCE OF VICAR BECOMES EFFECTIVE

New York, Aug. 23.—The divorce of Rev. Charles B. Ackley, vicar of St. Bartholomew's chapel and assistant to Rev. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's church here, from Henrietta L. Ackley, a belle of Atlanta and Washington when he married her in 1907, became effective in the New York State Supreme Court here today.

No one knew there was any trouble between the prominent couple until the case came up and the interlocutory decree was granted in Supreme Court, May 25th.

According to the testimony of witnesses for Dr. Ackley, none of which was contested or even replied to by Mrs Ackley, she had been guilty of the impropriety of traveling through Italy and other parts of Europe for her health with one "Sam Charles"

Any time after today the Rev Mr Ackley may remarry, but his former wife is forbidden to remarry in less than 5 years

Dancing Masters Will Hold Big Convention

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Life here is just one foxtrot after another. It got that way at an early hour and will continue so until September 2. The reason being that 450 members of the American National Association of Masters of Dancing—including Louis Fretlow, 75 years old—are one-stepping around the Blackstone hotel getting ready for their 33rd annual convention.

Don't forget Frerlow. When it comes to conception and execution of steps that stagger, he's very heavy in the head and light as a feather in the feet. He has done wonders, they say, taking the heaviness out of aspiring feet and putting it in the very light heads that accompanied them.

The masters used to meet about the time the first robin was poking his nose over the Mason-Dixon line, but their pupils objected; said they have the very latest steps well in foot before the earliest weeks of the winter dancing season.

About the only step these 450 debonair gentlemen didn't invent is the lockstep. But nobody cares because that's going out.

CURWENSVILLE NEWS

The seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Malott died at their home in Clearfield Monday evening and the body was brought to Curwensville this afternoon and interred in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mother's meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held last Thursday, the 24th, at 2:30 p. m., including the annual reception for the new officers and closing business of the year.

Miss Catherine Dyer gave a luncheon this afternoon to a large number of her friends from this place and also from Clearfield. The hours were wiled away in social intercourse until the time arrived for the departure of her pleased guests.

An accident occurred at the Bickford brick plant yesterday forenoon by which two of the employes were injured more or less. Joseph Wonar and Toney Zwolski, the injured, were engaged in wheeling burned brick from a kiln and were in the act of loading their barrows when the top of a tier of brick let loose and fell on top of them.. Zwolski suffered some cuts on the head and a few bruises about the body, while Wonar received injuries the worse of the two. Dr. King was summoned and dressed the wounds, when they were brought to town in Supt. McKinley's auto. Zwolski going to his home on the South Side, while Wonar, who had no home, was sent to the Clearfield hospital. No blame is attached to any one for the accident as it was one that is likely to happen most any time on works of this kind.

Mrs. Joseph Fleckner and three daughters, of Tyrone, have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Orr since Saturday.

The directors of the Curwensville Building and Loan Association met last evening in an adjourned session. ### HOW ENGLAND SAVED THE AMERICAN COTTON PLANTER FROM DISASTER

London, Aug. 3.—(By Mail)—That the British government decided not to let American cotton to go below 8½ cents a pound to planters; that it prepared to spend 250 million to prevent a possible cotton panic in America and that it sent its agents to the United States to buy cotton in unlimited quanties to keep the price normal; and also that these agents are still in the United States, are facts given to the United Press today.

The British government, when it decided in 1915 to make cotton contraband, realized that it might cause a panic in the United States. Felix Rose, who directed the British plan to prevent this, told how he did it.

"We had to declare cotton contraband," said he, "but we wanted to protect the cotton planters. We knew the speculators would make capital of the order in council and drive cotton price to ruinous depths.

"So the British government decided to go into the market as a buyer. I looked over the market and decided we should be ready to buy 5 million bales, and we had to have 250 million dollars at our disposal constantly.

"We thought the planter should not get less than 8½ cents, so we sent agents to the United States with unlimited authority to buy. That was in July of 1915. We told the American government of our plan. On August 18th the king signed the order in council declaring cotton contraband.

"No panic followed. What we had done was not generally known and the strength of cotton in the open market must have been a mystery to the speculators. In the first week cotton went up a cent. Within a month it was up 3½ cents. So the planters received $60,000,000 more for the crop that year than they would have received in normal times."

"Is the British government ready ot follow with the same action for the 1916 crop?" was asked.

"It looks as if the 1916 crop would be able to sell itself without British aid," said Rose. Rose, an English subject, has been in the cotton business all his life. He added in conclusion that every bale of cotton that has been seized by the British has been paid for and no shipper has lost money except possibly on cotton for which he would have received an exorbitant profit if he had gotten it to Germany instead of its being seized by the British. Every bale seized, he said, has been sold to spinners in England and not a single bale remains in storage.

Bill Provides For Vocational Training

Will Install Courses in All Oigh High Schools if Passed.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Uncle Sam will put a vocational course of training in every high school in the country if a bill that has just passed the Senate also passes the House of Repsentatives. Indications today are that the bill will become a law soon.

The bill was introduced simultaneously in both Houses by Senator Hoke Smith and Representative Hughes, both of Georgia. It is an elaboration of the federal aid system by which the United States government contributes annually $100,000 to each state for the maintenance of agricultural colleges and experimental stations, as well as four million, one hundred thousand dollars to carry on the rural extension system of vocational instruction for farmers throughout the country.

The proposed law is the result of a steadily growing conviction that the prospective farmer, or, nowadays, scientific agriculturalist, should be extended the opportunities of an agricultural schooling at an early age and not be compelled to attend the agricultural college for the rudiments of his trade.

It has been felt that a large proportion of boys destined to make their living from the soil are unable to afford a college education and need high school credits for college entrance anyhow.

Eighteen states now extend aid to their high schools for course in agriculture, the mechanic arts and home economics. Minnesota annually appropriates $300,000 for this work.

To standardize and nationalize the high school aid work the Smith-Hughes bill provides that the United States shall share in the payment of salaries to state teachers, inspectors and directors in state high schools. It also provides for a Federal Board of Vocational Education.

This board, which would consist of the Commissioner of Education of the United States as chairman and four members to be appointed, (not more than two from any political party), by the President. This board and state educational authorities would co-operate in outlining courses.

The state relations service of the Department of Agriculture has pursued the system still further by preparing a comprehensive system of courses in agriculture. These have been offered to the states for use in their grammar schools, in the rural districts.

Alabama, Mississippi, Wisconsin, Maryland and Vermont have installed the course in all their elementary schools since the initiation of the plan a year or so ago.

A. T. KEARNEY EXPLAINS HOW TO USE LIME

Farm Agent Discusses Problems Which Farmers of County Have Asked About

FARM BUREAU COOPERATING

By A. T. Kearney.

Many farmers in Clearfield county are planning to apply lime to the land in which they are sowing fall grain. These men do not need anyone to inform them that lime must be applied for the maximum production of farm crops. The results of its use are obvious on practically every thrifty field of clover in the county. With the knowledge that lime will correct soil acidity, and make the soil favorable for the growth of leguminous crops, the problems concerning its use divide themselves as follows:

1. How much can I afford to pay for it.
2. What form of lime will give the most satisfactory and economical results.
3. How should it be applied?

A successful Clearfield county farmer stated recently that he could afford to pay 10 per cent interest on borrowed money, used for purchasing lime, rather than to allow his crops to suffer on account of soil acidity. There is no question that lime, even at the present high prices, pays big dividends, if intelligently handled on a large percentage of the cultivated land in the county and there is perhaps no other material applied to our land that will give as prompt and as large return on the investment. In some cases, however, it is being purchased at an exhorbitant figure owing to the large overhead charges accrued in freight, cost of sacking and retailers profits.

The Farm Bureau is interested in aiding the farmers of the county in obtaining their lime at a lower cost. Among the tangible methods for the accomplishment of this end appears to be the encouraging of the output of lime rock, where it is possible in the county. A number of outcrops have already been visited and samples of the rock sent away for analysis. In sections where high grade rock can be obtained for a dollar a ton, a substantial saving can usually be applied by its use, either in burned, or the raw ground form.

However, the possibility of obtaining a cheaper lime by this method applies only to those regions of the county where a workable outcrop occurs. For these sections that are compelled to ship in their lime, the best method seems to be the purchase in carload lots of standard lime product. All price comparisons should, of course, be based on the cost laid down at the home depot. In no case should lime be bought without knowing its purity. Pure limestone is 100 per cent Calcium Carbonate. Limestone analyzing over 90 per cent of this compound is considered good. Dolomite limestones contain a part of their carbonate in the magnesium form. Such rock is satisfactory for agricultural purposes where the amount of magnesium carbonate does not exceed 40 per cent. At the present time, high grade burned lime can be obtained for about $4.50 per ton in carload lots in most parts of the county. Ground limestone will cost from $3.40 to $3.75. When burned or lump lime sells for $4.50 per ton, hydrated lime is worth $3.40 and ground limestone worth $2.52 per ton, based on actual lime content. Such factors as weight, fineness and ease of application must, of course, be considered.

Recruiting Station to be Opened In Dimeling

N. G. P. Officers Will Seek Recruits Throughout This Section

During the last few days bills have been displayed in the local postoffice and in other public places throughout the town and surrounding country, announcing the opening of a temporary recruiting station for the National Guard of Pennsylvania in Clearfield.

This station will be at the Hotel Dimeling, at which place the recruiting officer for this district, Lieut. R. A. Zentmyer will be present on the afternoons and evenings days, August 25, September 1 and 12.

Lieutenant Zentmyer will be glad to talk over with any possible candidates just what is offered and expected.

We would suggest to our energetic and patriotic young men that this is the opportunity to get into the service and secure a thorough training in preparedness. The future safety of this country may depend upon how well the young man of today fits himself for the duty of defending his country.

Clearfield county has many young men who ought to be the sons of their fathers, who, in '61 rushed to offer their services at the first call of duty.

Boys, now is your chance to prove that you meant it when you said that if you had a chance you would enlist in the National Guard, and would go to the border or any other place where courage was needed.

BIG SWEDE CAUGHT

The Progress learns on good authority that William Dennery (the Big Swede) who is wanted here in the Rowles murder case has been captured in Cleveland and is now in the custody of officers en route to Clearfield. He will arrive here tonight or tomorrow morning. More about it in tomorrow's paper.

ENTERTAINMENT CLOSES SEASON OF PLAYGROUND

TWO MEDALS ARE PRESENTED

Despite the fact that the closing event of the season's work at Mineral Springs Park, Woodland's pretty little playground, had to compete for attention with an Indian show, there was a crowd of about two hundred and fifty people gathered in the pavilion at the park to pay tribute to the wonderful work that Miss Violet Williams, the play ground directress, has accomplished during the summer.

The audience was made up largely of employes of the Woodland plant of the Harbison-Walker Refractories Co., under whose auspices the play ground movement has reached its present proportions. There was a noticeable sprinkling of foreign element in the assemblage which goes to show that native and alien alike in the community have become interested in the work.

Promptly at eight o'clock the performance was opened by a chorus of five little girls with a very appropriate song, "How do you do, have you brought your smiles with you?" This was followed by a little playlet, founded on the troubles of Mother Goose, which brought in almost every character of the time honored personage. The number was heartily appreciated as was shown by the frequent interruptions of the skit by the laughter of the audience. The "White Queen," another playlet which exemplified the fact that no one ever knows, when a kind act is performed, how manifold may be the returns, deserves especial mention in that the moral teachings of the story portrayed will have a lasting effect on the children. A German folksong with a lot of pretty action was the next feature and was heartily applauded.

At this point, Mr. David Young, the superintendent of the Woodland plant, was called upon for a talk. Mr. Young gave a short review of the work done by the playground officials and endeavored to impress on his hearers the importance of the play ground work. He said that all could not be directors of the work; but it needed some very deep study to fit the person to fulfill the duties that devolved upon the director and paid high tribute to Miss Williams who has had charge of the work for the past two summers, thanking her for the interest that she had taken and hoped to be able to inform his hearers that Miss Williams would return to Mineral Springs Park next summer. Mr. Young then presented Miss Pickles and John Eckley medals for proficiency in play ground work. These medals are given out by the National Play Ground Association for the attainment of a high standard of work that is carried on at the play grounds. The evening was closed by a handkerchief pantomine by older girls at the close of which they wished the audience "Good Night." Miss Williams was assisted by Miss Mable Albert at the piano and Miss Mable Young gave very able assistance with the costuming.

There was something that was noticeable in the makeup of the audience and that was the absence of the fathers of the children in the pavilion. The fathers of Woodland should become interested in this work in that it affects the entire future of the kiddies. The lessons of rightly directed energy and the inculcation of clean morals will go a long way toward the making of better men and women in the future and here is where this great humanitarian movement has its last effect.

During the past summer there has been erected, through the kindly offices of Mr. Young, a storage house for the small equipment that is used in play ground work. A peep inside discloses neatly arranged rows of dumbells and Indian clubs, bird houses that have been made by the boys and girls and there are also a number of costumes that can be used in staging litle performances. A very important feature of the store house is a complete First Aid kit so that minor accidents at the park can be given immediate attention.

Woodland is to be congratulated on having such a finely equipped play spot for the children and the play ground officials have been very fortunate that they have had as efficient a directress as Miss Williams has proven herself to be. Before concluding her duties Miss Williams formed an association among the older girls so that, in case she does not return next year, there will be an organization to perpetuate the good work that she has started. The officers of the Association are, Miss Grace Albert, president; Miss Lola Young, secretary, and Miss Thelma Stewart, treasurer.

BRIDE WORE TRAVELING SUIT

A wedding of social prominence, marked by beautiful simplicity, was solemnized at the Trinty Methodist Episcopal church, of Philipsburg, on Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock, when one of Philipsburg's charming young ladies and a poular resident of Clearfield, in the persons of Miss Grace Gertrude Friday and Mr. Ralph Irwin Gilliland, plighted their truth before hymen's altar. Rev. C. W. Wasson, the bride's pastor, performed the impressive ring ceremony, with only the immediate relatives and a few honored guests of the contracting parties attending.

The church was artistically decorated with palms and banks of goldenglow and goldenrod, the harmonious color note enhancing the beauty of the occasion.

Preceeding the ceremony Miss Mary Fryberger rendered most beautifully several selections on the organ, and as "Lohengrin" was being played the bride and groom walked down the center aisle to the altar. The sweet strains of "Barcarolle" were heard during the service.

The bride was adorable in a tailored suit of kobe brown French garbadine finished with tan cloth of the same material, and wearing hat and shoes of corresponding hue. She also wore a corsage bouquet of orchids.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gilliland were surrounded by their friends and a reception was held and congratulations and best wishes were showered upon the happy young couple, following which they were taken to P. R. R. depot, where they started on their honeymoon to visit Chicago, Nappanee, Wawasee Lake and St. Paul, expecting to be absent three weeks. Upon their return they will reside in Philipsburg.

The bride, an accomplished and winsome daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Friday, has for several years successfully taught the seventh and eighth grade in the public schools at Morrisdale. Hand painted china of rose design was also used, charmingly carrying out the color scheme of pink and green.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome and costly gifts.

The out-of-town guests were Mrs Maria Youthers and Mr and Mrs William Gilliland of Clearfield, Miss Ella Ruthford, of St. Paul, Minn., Miss Bernice Gilliland of Philadelphia, and L. K. Hayes of Curwensville.

EMPLOYEES CAN HOLD OUT ONLY 48 HOURS MORE

MANAGER SAYS HE PREPARED

Washington, Aug. 23.—(By United Press)—Following an hour's discussion between President Wilson and Chairmen Newlands and Adamson of the senate and house interstate commerce committee it became known today that the President desires a bill passed by the house providing for an increase in the membership of the interstate commerce commission. It is believed the President's action is based on the desire that the commission sit for hearings at the request of the railroad brotherhood concerning the increased rates, and in case they concede to President Wilson's proposition for an 8 hour day.

The meeting of railway presidents which was held at 11:00 reported to the sub-committee that no decision had been reached and had resulted in no acceptance of a plan. Strike talk broke out again when Thomas Donovan of the Boston and Albany Railway and chairman of the brotherhood proposed that the brotherhood chairmen return to their homes leaving the four heads here to arrange for a strike.

For a time it appeared as though the senatee might take action, but several of the leaders fought against such a drastic measure and Donovan's plan was killed. The strike talk was so strong, however that one of the brotherhood leaders said he doubted if the men could be kept in line for more than 48 hours.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, ANGUST 23, 1916.

We have to apologize today for not being able to print all the personal items that were turned in yesterday. Trouble with one of our mmachines delayed us about two hours and we were compelled to neglect practically all the personals and some important news matter.

The firemen can thank the weather man for one thing at last. Althought the rain has considerably dampened the enthusiasm of the convention today, it has worked wonders in the atmosphere and unless it gets real hot by tomorrow noon the parade route will be very pleasant. If the sun shines tomorrow morning the street hose should be used all over the town.

MAY MEAN A SAVING.

That the condemnation which Gov. Hughes has visited upon the Administration for creating useless commissions to make places for "deserving Democrats" may be productive of good even before March 4th, is indicated by the report from Washington that certain Democratic leaders have initiated a movement to cut the salaries of all members of special commissions to $7,500. Certain of the Democratic leaders predict the reduction of the salaries of the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Reserve Board, the Farm Loans Board and the prospective tariff commission to $7,500, in conformity with the pay of members of the proposed Shipping Commission. Republicans are very skeptical, however, that such a step will be taken unless President Wilson is defeated in November.

WHY DO THEY STAY ON THE BORDER?

Secretary Baker in his series of statements and letters written to critics of the Administration's policy of keeping the National Guard on duty on the Mexican border, is almost brusque in asserting that the Guard will stay there "as long as it is needed to protect American lives and property." But, with all this, he is not explicit as to how it is to do this. Americans were told long ago to get out of Mexico or protect themselves without hope of help, while American property there has long ceased to have any interest for the Administration in Washington save as a horrible example of the alleged selfishness of various and sundry unamed citizens anxious to embrass their home country and get the President in difficulties by claiming protection. Moreover, it is asserted again and again that the policy of the Administration has been consistently for withdrawal from Mexico. Carranza agents have openly boasted that this is and has been the case, if not preceding, at least following closely upon the call for the National Guard mobilization; so there is no wonder the questions are being asked as to why the boys are still kept on the border, "winning bloodless victories." An endeavor, too, is now being made to put the cart before the horse and credit the coming "withdrawal" scheme to the army officials instead of the civil Administration, which has forced its policies on the army at all issues. This, of course, it has a right to do, but it must take the full responsibility.—Public Ledger.

Prohibition Party Will Make Very Extensive Campaign During the Fall

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 23.—The active leaders of the Prohibition party are completing the final arrangements for a campaign that is expected to demonstrate to the people of the entire country that the party with the camel as the insignia is henchforth to be reckoned with as a factor in national and state politics. The campaign will be nation wide in its scope and will be conducted along lines that the experience of the older parties has shown to be the most conducive to success at the polls. Tons of campaign literature will be scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific and a corps of able stump speakers will penetrate to every nook and corner of the land.

With funds already subscribed, the campaign leaders plan to operate a special presidential train through the "strategic" territory. There will be intensive campaigning in Michigan, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana. Special movements are also being prepared in Montana, Idaho, Missouri, California, Nebraska and South Dakota, in which constitutional amendments are pending. In Washington, Oregon and Arkansas the Prohibitionists will be specially alert, as in these states the liquor interests are attempting, by referendum elections, to break down the regulatory or prohibitionitory laws. The problem is to hold territory already gained and add new.

The efforts of the Prohibitionists according to a statement of Virgil G. Hinshaw of this city, the national chairman, will be distributed generously among issues, state and national, as an effort will be made to encourage the candidacies of Prohibitionists ambitious to enter Congress.

The Prohibitionists realize that there exists among men voters a very large and influential body of independents. Previous invitations to the Progressives as a unit came to nothing, but as the Progressives ideas are apparently in the line of social reform promised by the Prohibitionists it is argued that Progressives could be legitimately asked to join hands with the party now led by J. Frank Hanly and Dr. Ira Landrith.

In the opinion of party leaders the Prohibitionists enter the campaign this year under particularly promising conditions. There is, first, a general sentiment in favor of regulation—if not destruction—of the whole liquor traffic. Second, there are movements in several states looking toward prohibition. Third, an enormous increase in the number of women voters inspires the hope that the Prohibitionists can attract a considerable body. The effort to attract the votes of the women is made in the belief that women generally are inclined to support temperance or prohibition regardless of other political persuasions.

Financial prospects, however, are extremely encouraging. Gratifying progress is being made in the efforts to raise a campaign fund of a quarter of a million dollars or more. The managers realize that it costs a tremendous amount of money to run a national campaign, but they are confident sufficient funds will be forthcoming to carry out their plans. These plans call for the maintenance in this city until election day of an extensive publicity office, from which campaign arguments will be sent. This office will also operate as headquarters for 1,000 or more workers throughout the national field.

Today's Geographic Study of The Great European War Zone

Washington, Aug. 23.—Doiran, the town at which the Franco-British forces from Salonika began their long expected drive recently, is described in the following war geography bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society from its Washington headquarters.

"Situated on the frontier between Servia and Greece, and only about 16 miles south of the Bulgarian border, Doiran, also known as Polianino, is 30 miles northwest of Salonika on the southern shores of the almost circular lake of the same name. It was doubtless chosen as the point of first attack by the allies because it is connected by rail with Salonika, the road from the Greek port to Constantinople here making a great loop to the north west and then returning eastward by way of Seres, an important town about 45 miles northeast of the Salonika base of operations.

"Lake Doiran, nestling under the southern declivities of the Belasitza mountain range, is probably the Lake Prasias mentioned by Herodotus whose description of the Paeonians, living in houses built over the edge of the water, fits in a measure the modern fisherfolk living in huts in this vicinity. The women of present-day Doiran are not so famous for their industry, however, as were their noted forerunners of whom the Greek historian relates a typical story to the effect that Darius, seeing a beautiful Paeonian girl carrying a pitcher of water on her head, leading a horse to drink, and at the same time spinning flax, immediately order his Thracian general to send two tribes of these Paeonians into Asia in order that they might instill a similar spirit of thrift among the Persians.

"Eight miles west of Doiran is the Vardar River, which rises in the Shar mountains, flows through the Uskup plain and enters the Gulf of Salonika, thus constituting for hundreds of years the principal route from Central Europe to the Aegean Sea. Between the Vardar and the Struma River (to the east) extend the Belasitza mountains, a range some 50 miles in length forming part of the southern boundary of Bulgaria.

"The name of these mountains will always be associated with one of the most harrowing episodes of the Middle Ages, for it was at the battle of Belasitza that Samuel, the Bulgarian czar who had conquered practically all the Balkan peninsula and whose sway extended from the Danube to Morea, met defeat at the hands of the redoubtable Byzantine emperor, Basil II, surnamed Bulgaroktonos (Slayer of Bulgarians). Basil had laid the foundation for his success a quarter of a century previously when he rode out in front of his troops at Abydos and challenged his rebel general, Bardas Phocas, to single combat. Phocas, wheeling his horse preparatory to accepting the challenge, fell from his charger and when picked up by his soldiers was found to be dead.

"During the battle of Belasitza in 1014 Basil captured 15,000 Bulgarians. He blinded the whole number, leaving but one eye to every hundredth man, spared to this extent in order that he might act as a guide for the pitiable host of warriors thus returned to their czar. When Samuel beheld this helpless army of his mutilated subjects marching toward him he fainted and two days later died of grief. With him died the Slavonic empire of the Balkans and for a century and a half thereafter the Bulgarians were subject to the Byzantine rulers."

HARRISBURG'S ORPHANTS' DAY.

Hershey, Aug. 23.—Scores of Harrisburg orphans came here joyfully today. It was the annual "orphans' day" of the Harrisburg Motor Club. Apparently, the club corralled every youngster at the capitol who has no parents.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water b fore breakfast.

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Lets us live well, eat well digest well, work well sleep well, and look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone whether, ailing, sick or well, should each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigstible waste sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifing the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of waer from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, billious spells, stomach trouble; others who have shallow skin, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make any one a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.

Big Business Recognizes Publicity.

By BREEN.

In latter years the biggest enterprises in this country have recognized the value of advertising. The men in charge of their advertising campaigns are paid splendid salaries. In fact, no branch of the business receives more attention. Publicity and advertising form the keynote of success.

If big business needs advertising doesn't small business need it?

Every man in business needs advertising. If his business is a success he needs advertising to keep it so. If his business is struggling liberal advertising will build it up.

ARGUE NEW TRIAL.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 23. An extraordinary term of Supreme Court convened here today to hear the application for a new trial in the case of Charles F. Stielow, the man who was recently saved from the death chair in Sing Sing prison by receiving two eleventh-hour reprieves in one day. Stielow was convicted of murdering Charles Phelps, a farmer by whom he was employed, and Mr. Phelps' housekeeper, Mrs. Wolcott, at their home in Orleans county, N. Y., in July of last year. The conviction was brought about chiefly on a confession alleged to have been made by Stielow, and which the convicted man subsequently declared was forced upon him by third degree methods. Lawyers and other influential people who have become convinced of Stielow's innocence set to work to save him from the death chair. Their efforts resulted in the arrest of Irving King, an itinerant peddler, who had spent the night at the Phelps' home. King is alleged to have made damaging admissions amounting to practically a confession of guilt and the lawyers of Stielow are confident that they will be able to fasten upon the peddler the crime for which their client now stands convicted.

THE HUSTLING BROWNS.

The Browns have finished in the first division only twice in the fourteen years they have been in the American league, in 1902 and 1908 Four times—in 1905, 1910, 1911 and 1915—they have been locked in the cellar

Ten years ago, Fielder Jones, now piloting the Browns and at that time manager of the white Sox, pulled his team up from nowhere and won 19 straight games The sensational spurt won the pennant for the Sox, who later downed the Cubs in the world's series

St Louis hasn't had a pennant winner since the days of the old American association While members of the old organization the Browns brought home four pennants in a row —1885 6-7 8

George Sisler, the Browns' wonder is credited with being the most versatile pastimer in the big yard He is there as a pitcher, a baseman, or an outfielder, and likewise as a batsman and base runners

Koob the youngster and the two veterans, Plank and Groom, have carried the pitching burden for the Jones crowd all season

While the Browns have been making their spectacular pennant race the team has remained a second division outfit in both club batting and club fielding.

Winning fourteen straight games started the Browns on the road to Pennantville and at the same time established the season's record in the American league

The owner of the Browns have hung up a bonus of $5000 to be divided among the players if they cop the pennant

Not all the glory of the Browns showing belongs to the youngsters of the team Old timers like Wallace, Plank Groom Hartley and Miller have been keeping step with the younger players and appear fit to go the full distance

Eddie Plank, the veteran twirler who has thrown the speed throttle wide open in an effort to pitch the Browns to a pennant starting pos-tiring fifteen years ago with the Athletics Up to the present year, his last season's record with the Federal league included, he has won 282 games and lost 164.

Schalk of the White Sox and Schang of the Athletics, who are recognized as the class of the American league backstops, will now have a share in the spotlight with Hank Severeid Hank's work behind the plate and his batting have been gleeful doing for the Browns.

In Shotton, Marsans, Sisler and Pratt, the Browns have the speediest quartet under the big top. They are among the first ten base stealers in the American league, and woe is eight for the fielder who hesitates a fraction of a second in an attempt to nip 'em on the paths.

Fielder Jones, pilot of the Browns, made his first reputation as a manager of the White Sox After quitting the Sox he accepted the presidency of the Northwestern league, which position he resigned to take charge of the St Louis Feds last year

None of the Browns is leading in any department of the game, but as a team they are a hard bunch to beat

Dancing Masters Will Hold Big Convention

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Life here is just one foxtrot after another. It got that way at an early hour and will continue so until September 2. The reason being that 450 members of the American National Association of Masters of Dancing—including Louis Fretlow, 75 years old—are one-stepping around the Blackstone hotel getting ready for their 33rd annual convention.

Don't forget Frerlow. When it comes to conception and execution of steps that stagger, he's very heavy in the head and light as a feather in the feet. He has done wonders, they say, taking the heaviness out of aspiring feet and putting it in the very light heads that accompanied them.

The masters used to meet about the time the first robin was poking his nose over the Mason-Dixon line, but their pupils objected; said they have the very latest steps well in foot before the earliest weeks of the winter dancing season.

About the only step these 450 debonair gentlemen didn't invent is the lockstep. But nobody cares because that's going out.

HOW ENGLAND SAVED THE AMERICAN COTTON PLANTER FROM DISASTER

London, Aug. 3.—(By Mail)—That the British government decided not to let American cotton to go below 8½ cents a pound to planters; that it prepared to spend 250 million to prevent a possible cotton panic in America and that it sent its agents to the United States to buy cotton in unlimited quanties to keep the price normal; and also that these agents are still in the United States, are facts given to the United Press today.

The British government, when it decided in 1915 to make cotton contraband, realized that it might cause a panic in the United States. Felix Rose, who directed the British plan to prevent this, told how he did it.

"We had to declare cotton contraband," said he, "but we wanted to protect the cotton planters. We knew the speculators would make capital of the order in council and drive cotton price to ruinous depths.

"So the British government decided to go into the market as a buyer. I looked over the market and decided we should be ready to buy 5 million bales, and we had to have 250 million dollars at our disposal constantly.

"We thought the planter should not get less than 8½ cents, so we sent agents to the United States with unlimited authority to buy. That was in July of 1915. We told the American government of our plan. On August 18th the king signed the order in council declaring cotton contraband.

"No panic followed. What we had done was not generally known and the strength of cotton in the open market must have been a mystery to the speculators. In the first week cotton went up a cent. Within a month it was up 3½ cents. So the planters received $60,000,000 more for the crop that year than they would have received in normal times."

"Is the British government ready ot follow with the same action for the 1916 crop?" was asked.

"It looks as if the 1916 crop would be able to sell itself without British aid," said Rose. Rose, an English subject, has been in the cotton business all his life. He added in conclusion that every bale of cotton that has been seized by the British has been paid for and no shipper has lost money except possibly on cotton for which he would have received an exorbitant profit if he had gotten it to Germany instead of its being seized by the British. Every bale seized, he said, has been sold to spinners in England and not a single bale remains in storage.

Bill Provides For Vocational Training

Will Install Courses in All Oigh High Schools if Passed.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Uncle Sam will put a vocational course of training in every high school in the country if a bill that has just passed the Senate also passes the House of Reprsentatives. Indications today are that the bill will become a law soon.

The bill was introduced simultaneously in both Houses by Senator Hoke Smith and Representative Hughes, both of Georgia. It is an elaboration of the federal aid system by which the United States government contributes annually $100,000 to each state for the maintenance of agricultural colleges and experimental stations, as well as four million, one hundred thousand dollars to carry on the rural extension system of vocational instruction for farmers throughout the country.

The proposed law is the result of a steadily growing conviction that the prospective farmer, or, nowadays, scientific agriculuralist, should be extended the opportunities of an agricultural schooling at an early age and not be compelled to attend the agricultural college for the rudiments of his trade.

It has been felt that a large proportion of boys destined to make their living from the soil are unable to afford a college education and need high school credits for college entrance anyhow.

Eighteen states now extend aid to their high schools for course in agriculture, the mechanic arts and home economics. Minnesota annually appropriates $300,000 for this work.

To standardize and nationalize the high school aid work the Smith-Hughes bill provides that the United States shall share in the payment of salaries to state teachers, inspectors and directors in state high schools. It also provides for a Federal Board of Vocational Education.

This board, which would consist of the Commissioner of Education of the United States as chairman and four members to be appointed, (not more than two from any political party), by the President. This board and state educational authorities would co-operate in outlining courses.

The state relations service of the Department of Agriculture has pursued the system still further by preparing a comprehensive system of courses in agriculture. These have been offered to the states for use in their grammar schools, in the rural districts.

Alabama, Mississippi, Wisconsin, Maryland and Vermont have installed the course in all their elementary schools since the initiation of the plan a year or so ago.
